Bluepoint Solutions Introduces Check 21 Products

Offers Flexible Options for Branch Image Capture

Vista, Calif. – Bluepoint Solutions, a premier provider of document management solutions for credit unions, today introduced a line of Check 21 capture products called C21Capture™. C21Capture is designed to operate in a wide range of branch capture environments.

"Banking and credit union experts agree that branch capture is the most efficient approach to Check 21," says Hal Tilbury, Bluepoint CEO and founder. "However, even with that as a given, credit unions still need to decide between teller capture, back-counter capture, or back-office capture." According to Tilbury, C21Capture is ideally suited for any of these environments.

"We feel quite strongly that the true future of Check 21 lies in capture at the teller line," adds Tilbury, "but we also know that many credit unions will want to ease into Check 21 a little at a time. Back-counter and back-office capture allow them to do that."

In addition to a stand-alone solution, the teller-line version of C21Capture can also be integrated with Bluepoint's Receipt Manager™ line of transaction control products. This provides credit unions with a seamless, end-to-end solution.

"We've been using our Receipt Manager products to capture check images at the teller workstation for the past two years," concludes Tilbury. "C21Capture simply represents the natural evolution of our technology."
